

St Aloysius School, founded by the Sisters of Charity, was established in 1960 in Roslyn Avenue, Kingston Beach, and from that date until 2001 was conducted by the Sisters. The first lay Principal was appointed in 2002. At first a Catholic primary school catering for Kindergarten to Year 6 students, St Aloysius grew over the years on the Kingston Campus and, in 2007, the enrolment was over 460 students.

The Archbishop of Hobart, Most Rev Adrian Doyle, gave his approval early in 2007 to extend the educational program to include Years 7 to 10 and for St Aloysius School to become St Aloysius Catholic College. The first stage of this extension of the educational program was the introduction of a Middle School facility at Huntingfield from 2009 to cater for Years 6 and 7. In 2010, this Middle School facility included Grade 5 and 8 students. Grade 9 commenced in 2011, with Grade 10 commencing in 2012. The Kingston Campus has catered for Kindergarten to Grade 4 from 2010.

At St Aloysius Catholic College, we aim to foster the development and practice of Catholic values. We provide a sensitive and caring approach to education, within a safe environment, in which all students will have the opportunity to reach their full potential.

We aim to foster self-esteem, self-confidence and respect for the gifts and needs of each individual and an awareness of the unique contribution each can make to the College community. Underpinning all is the value we place on the personal and spiritual development of each student.

We aim to provide a high quality, balanced education in which all students will be able to develop a wide range of talents and interests.
