

ST ALOYSIUS

CATHOLIC COLLEGE

11th May 2018

Dear Parents/Guardians

During the recent extreme weather event in the Hobart region, both St Aloysius Campuses have experienced significant damage. Due to this fact, St Aloysius Catholic College was closed today for students and the majority of staff.

After internal and external assessment of the damages to both campuses, it is clear that the College will not be in a position to open on Monday 14th May. Therefore, Monday 14th May is a student free day at St Aloysius Catholic College.

We thank parents and guardians in advance for their consideration as we undertake restoration of the College. We will be in a position on Monday to communicate further to the College community in regards to Tuesday 15th May.

Please be assured that the decision making in regards to the operation of the College has focused primarily on student safety and wellbeing.

Kind regards

Brendan Gill & Joseph Sandric
Principals